

THE CASE FOR AANAPISIS

Asian American Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institutions (AANAPISIs) play a unique role in supporting low-income, first generation Asian and Pacific Islander American (APIA) students. As federally designated Minority Serving Institutions (MSI), AANAPISIs cultivate environments that promote the success of underserved APIA students by attending to their distinct needs. In order to advance postsecondary equity and workforce outcomes for the rapidly increasing APIA student population, it is critical to understand the true diversity of this community.

A DIVERSE AND GROWING COMMUNITY

APIAs are the Fastest-Growing Racial Group

More than 48
Ethnicities Represented

On track to being the Largest Immigrant Group
in the U.S. by 2055 (50 Million)

Over 300
Spoken Languages

DIVERSE NEEDS AMONG APIA GROUPS

Educational attainment varies widely among APIA ethnic groups.

Nearly Half of Chinese, Korean, and Thai Americans have limited English proficiency (LEP), and 40% of Cambodian, Bangladeshi, Laotian, Hmong Americans, and Micronesians are also LEP.

AANAPISIS: REACH & IMPACT

Eligible AANAPISIs must meet several criteria as outlined in Section 312(b) of the Higher Education Act, which include: 1) Undergraduate enrollment is at least 10 percent APIA students, 2) Enrollment of at least 50 percent of students with low-economic background, and 3) institutions maintain low average of educational and general expenditures.

Funding

Per capita, AANAPISIs receive the least amount of federal funding compared to other MSIs. Since 2007, only 50 institutions have received the AANAPISI grant.*

Impact

AANAPISI campuses enroll 1 out of 3 APIAs at 4-year institutions and 1 in 2 APIAs at 2-year institutions.

AANAPISIs award almost half of the associate's degrees and approximately one quarter of the bachelor's degrees attained by APIA college students.*

"I definitely would not be as involved or as connected if it weren't for taking these classes...It is because of the people that I've met where it has really activated some sort of greater sense of community and what I can do...to contribute to the community...And it also has encouraged me to dig deeper and think more critically."
